UK, 03 March, 2025

Ethiopian Airlines, the largest airline in Africa and one of the fastest-growing airline brands in the world, is proud to announce an increase of its flights from Manchester to Addis Ababa, to daily frequency effective July 3, 2025. This new daily schedule will offer extra travel options and enhanced connectivity for passengers across Africa, including connections to the leading Indian Ocean destinations of Zanzibar, Mombasa & Seychelles. The frequency increase will also avail seamless connections to the astonishing safari destinations: Nairobi, Kilimanjaro, Dar es Salaam, Maun, Victoria Falls, Johannesburg, Lusaka, and Cape Town along with many others.

Commenting on the new daily service, Anteneh Fekadu, Ethiopian's Traffic & Sales Manager in Manchester said, "We are thrilled to increase our flights from Manchester to daily frequency from July 3, 2025. This new schedule shows our commitment to providing our passengers with more travel and connectivity options. We look forward to welcoming our passengers on board and offering them the exceptional service that Ethiopian Airlines provides."

Stephen Turner, Chief Commercial Officer at Manchester Airport, said: "We are proud of our role in connecting the people of the North to the world, so naturally we're delighted that Manchester will soon be able to boast daily flights to Africa's largest hub airport. Addis Ababa offers an enviable network of connections to every corner of the continent, and now passengers flying from Manchester will be able to travel there with Ethiopian Airlines any day of the week, offering increased flexibility when making their travel plans, not to mention those wanting to reach some of Africa's most popular tourist spots like Cape Town, Zanzibar and the Seychelles."
